"I had the opportunity to work with Richard for the past year, and he never did anything less than a great job every day. He is very talented as a graphic designer - and proved that every day by helping create our unique front and back pages - but as great a job as he did, he was an equally good person. I can only see Richard succeeding in any job that he takes going forward, and I know he's been missed at the Post." August 27, 2008
